

NEVILLE PUBLIC MUSEUM
OF BROWN COUNTY
BRIDGING COMMUNITIES, CONNECTING GENERATIONS

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Green Bay Art Colony exhibition is now open!

Green Bay, WI—January 21, 2022— In September 1915, the Green Bay Art Club held its first public art exhibit in the children’s room of the Kellogg Public Library (125 S. Jefferson St.). This exhibit laid the foundation for a permanent museum in the library in 1917, which became the Neville Public Museum. Ever since then, Colony artists have held an annual art exhibit at the Neville Public Museum.

For more than a century, hundreds of women artists have been part of the Green Bay Art Colony. These women continue to inspire each other, educate the public, encourage new artists, and give scholarships to art students. Styles and club rules may have changed, but the dream to keep art and culture part of the community remains the same.

A total of 53 artworks from 20 artists were juried in by Bren Sibilsky, Founder of Bren Sibilsky Sculpture, Algoma, Wisconsin. Bren Sibilsky is an international artist and full-time sculptor and painter, with work in many collections throughout North America and Europe. Her artwork is the reflection of her interests in nature and realism. According to the artist her sculptures are, "a study in understanding universal emotion."

The 107th Art Colony Exhibition will be on display from January 21 through March 13, 2022.
