

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE:

Have a Dino-myte Time at the Neville!

Green Bay, WI—November 15, 2012—Big Mama and Baby Bones, the Neville’s infamous T-Rex’s, are on the loose! Dinosaur lovers are invited to join us in celebrating this vacation!

All students may participate in our T-Rex contest by answering the question “If you were Big Mama and Baby Bones and were on the loose in Green Bay, where would you go and what would you do?” Answer the question via essay or drawing. Please include your name, grade, teacher, school and you’ll be entered to win a classroom visit from Rolf “Wisconsin” Johnson- Neville Director and real-life dinosaur hunter who spent over 30 years as a paleontologist at the Milwaukee Public Museum. Essay forms are available for download at www.nevillepublicmuseum.org or by contacting Matt Welter, Curator of Education, at welter_mt@co.brown.wi.us. Please return your essays and/or drawings to Matt by November 30, 2012 at 210 Museum Place, Green Bay, WI 54303. All essays/drawings will be on display at the Neville.

Come to the Neville and participate in a dinosaur scavenger hunt! Scavenger hunts are free with Museum admission and should be returned to the Neville Gift Shop by November 30, 2012 (or Admission desk if the Gift Shop is closed) upon completion for a prize. All completed entries will receive one free Root beer token from Titledown Brewing Company and one free admission to the Children’s Museum, the NEW Zoo or the Green Bay Botanical Gardens (while supplies last). Participants will also receive a dinosaur sticker.

Stay tuned on our Facebook and Twitter page, and see where the dinosaurs might have gone and when they’ll return better than ever(tentative return date between November 28th and 29th).

Editorial expansion of story available upon request.

Submitted by:
Jenny Seim
Neville Public Museum Foundation
seim_jl@co.brown.wi.us
210 Museum Place
Green Bay, WI 54303
(920) 448-7874
www.nevillepublicmuseum.org

###